

Do not change the Wisconsin no call list law. It is what the citizens of Wisconsin want to protect us from annoying telemarketing calls. What these people must understand, is that if we put our name and number on the list it means we don't want to be called in the first place, so it would be bad business to upset a potential customer that may seek them out in the future. It is our right to have the law kept just as it was written the day we put our numbers on the list.